

COCHRANE WILL REFEREE--OILERS WIN BOTH GAMES

FLYNN AGREES TO KANSAS CITY MAN

Declares All He Wants Is a Square Deal; Retracts His Former Charges.

HARRY GREB IS DUE TODAY

Arrangements Made for Direct Wire to the Toledo Stadium.

Edward Cochrane, sporting editor of the Kansas City Journal and official referee of the Tulsa Sporting club, will be the third man in the ring on July 4 when Bill Brennan and Harry Greb tangle in their 42-round encounter at Convention hall.

This decision was reached last night at a conference between Promoter John Reisner, Leo P. Flynn, Brennan's manager, and newspaper men soon after the arrival of Flynn. Flynn had been holding out against Cochrane, declaring that he never would permit one of his fighters to enter any ring with Cochrane officiating, his objection dating from the meeting of Brennan and Billy Miske here a few months ago when Cochrane gave Miske the decision in a close fight.

It looked for a while last night like there would be no getting together on the referee question as Reisner was just as insistent that Cochrane officiate as Flynn was that he should not. At one time Flynn appeared to be on the verge of loading his heavyweight on a train and taking him back now, but after an agreement finally was reached everybody seemed to be perfectly satisfied.

Withdraws "Throwing" Charge. Admission by Flynn that it was merely upon hearsay information and guess that he had charged Greb with deliberately throwing the decision to Miske paid the way to a settlement of the controversy.

"I always will say that Brennan was entitled to the decision over Miske here and he proved it by beating--the same fellow just past Wednesday night," said Flynn, "but I will admit that I should not have charged Greb with it. It was influence I think I and everyone else has a perfect right to form and express his own opinion of who won and lost without being subjected to a cross-examination."

Why He Objected. Coming to the reason for objecting to Cochrane officiating July 4, he said:

"I have panned Cochrane all over the United States and he knows it. Naturally he will feel resentful. It is only natural that when a fellow is resentful he will let his prejudice influence him in rendering a decision. Don't you think it would be a sucker to let Greb in there and facing such a handicap?" This fellow is a tough customer. He is one of the very best in the business and if Brennan can beat him I will have a shot at some big money for there will be no one standing between Brennan and the winner of the Willard-Brennan fight. Can you blame me for not wanting to be blamed as a good man with so much at stake?"

"Certainly," Brennan's manager replied, "but how can you guarantee that? All I want on July 4 is an even break, because Brennan is right and I know that if he is given an even break he will trim this Greb just the same as he did Miske. That's what we will do."

Greco, too, was surprised when he learned that he will be satisfied.

While admitting that it was rather difficult to offer a specific guarantee, friends of Cochrane assured Flynn that he was not one who would let prejudice influence his decision, but that he was absolutely free from personal bias and that Greb is the one he is referring to. So strongly did he insist upon the fairness of Cochrane's officiating that Flynn finally agreed to accept him as the judge of the fight.

Is Wise Move.

In doing this Flynn has gone a long way toward saving himself in the good graces of Tulsa's fairies, which was greatly disturbed by the remarks he had made on his previous visit here.

The referee question settled, nothing remains that can detract from the success of the big Fourth of July boxing program. Greb has been here several days and is in great shape, apparently a much better man than when he was here before for not only does his physical condition look better but his victories since then, especially his clean-cut triumph over Mike O'Brien, has given him more confidence in himself and he believes he will be able to stop the Pittsburgher inside the fifteen-round limit.

Purser and Hughes have been working out here for the last two days and Greb is due to arrive today fresh from a victory over Mike O'Brien at Pittsburgh.

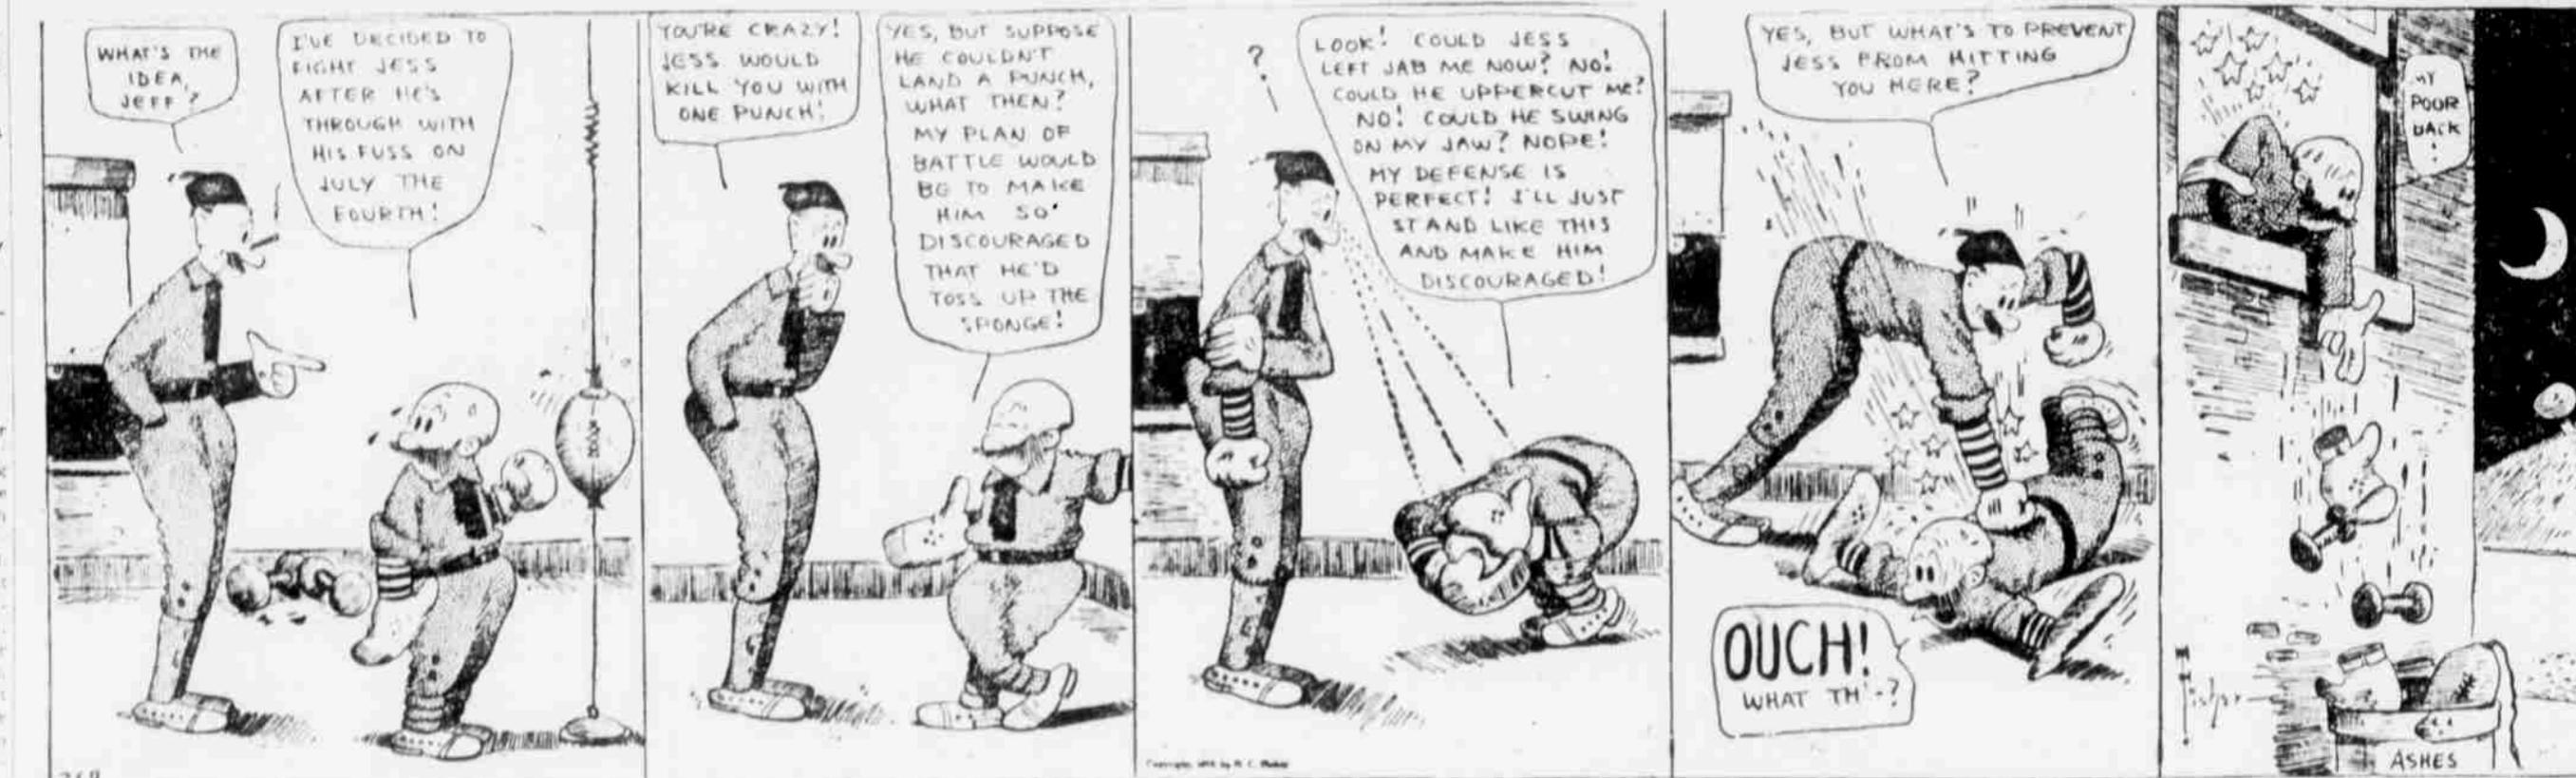

Plans were made by Promoter Reisner yesterday to furnish his patrons with the results of the Willard-Brennan fight which is to take place at the same time as the Brennan-Greb battle. He has arranged for a wire to run from the Indianapolis office at Toledo to Cincinnati and the process of the heavyweight championship battle will be given between rounds. He considers this feature alone worth the price of admission as he has arranged to get all the sidesights as well as the fight-by-rounds.

FAMILY QUARREL CAUSES DEATH OF WIFE AND CHILD.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Following an unsuccessful attempt to effect a reconciliation, Harvey Lynn, father living near the community cemetery, shot and killed his wife and their 6-month-old baby. Lynn was arrested and placed in the county jail here.

Feeling against the slayers was reported to be high in the community and a tragedy occurred and arrests were being taken today in the E. W. House.

Des Moines Demons Beaten in Pair of Pitching Duels

Musser Is Knocked Out of Box in First; Barham Proves Effective.

SHACKLEFORD WINS SECOND

New Hurler Makes Very Impressive Showing in His First Start.

Hitting opportunely behind some of the best pitching of the season, Tulsa defeated Des Moines in both games of yesterday's doubleheader at McMurtry park, 5 to 2 and 1 to 2. The last game, announced for seven innings, went 11 before the locals slipped over the deciding marker.

All in all, yesterday's exhibition was the most impressive showing made by the home team to date, and is indicative of what may be expected during the second half of the season if the club gets the right kind of pitchers.

Both games were pitchers' battles. Musser the much-touted and greatly feared mainstay of the Des Moines demons, was Tulsa's victim in the first game, retiring in the eighth to let Payne finish. Boyd took the dust in the second. It was Barham who triumphed in the first encounter and Shackleford, making his debut, in the second game off with colors flying. Both were superb in pinches, working even better when crowded than otherwise.

To Mutter Early.

Musser realized that he was doomed to defeat after the third inning, when the locals began to get him smashing out a trio of hits and scoring one run. Thorney opened the home game with a single and lifting a high one which dropped untouched in front of the pitcher's box. Manion drove him to second with a sharp single to left, and after Barham had popped out and Waffel had fanned, he scored on Shattuck's smash down the right foul line, which was good for two bases.

Two runs were run out in the sixth, Coffey's error on Davis grounder made the opening. Thorney came through with a two-base rap to right which bounded off the fence, sending Davis to third. Both of them scored in Manion's single center, his second hit of the game. In the seventh another pair was registered on singles by Thomas and Thorney and Manion and Shattuck.
